FAR FROM MODERN. This view of the present Warren high school building reveals the mixture of architecture, angles, spires, and conglomeration of floor and roof levels. However, there are some who feel the building has value and should be used. Others prefer a modern plant with a future. The maintenance cost and efficiency of a new school weigh heavily in favor of such a proposal. Spending good money on an antique does not seem like very good business.

HIGH IN AIR. Those spires peep over the old Warren high school building's meandering elbows, stacks, kaleidoscopic collection of roofs and gables, giving the effect of a small portion of some European community. Many would like to see this architectural atrocity replaced by a modern school, situated on sufficient land to provide all related facilities. This picture was taken from East st.

NEVER TOO MUCH. The March of Dimes emergency call for funds offers many mediums for giving. These boards, placed in many places about the county, hold $8 worth of dimes. However, patrons of the Carver Hotel didn't stop there. They tacked on dollars after the board was filled and produced this collection of $28. Red Barber, hotel employe is standing by. Next time you see a board, deposit a dime, if not a dollar.

PETITIONER. Manager Albert Minelli obtains a signature for the long list which appears on petitions Loblaws probably will submit to the Warren borough council to prove that the public wants the zoning ordinance changed to permit the construction of a new store on the north side of Fourth ave., near Hickory. The planning commission reported to council that it did not recommend the change. It gave no reason, but it is assumed that some of the residents of that area are opposed to a store being built next to their homes. Probably Loblaws would have had an easier road if it had purchased property on the opposite side of Fourth, nearer the existing commercial zone borderline.

Mrs. George Høden, and Mrs. N. K. Wendelboe, Jr. Standing are: Mrs. Leon Christensen, Mrs. John Hickey, Jr., Mrs. Donald Owens, Mrs. Edward Betts, Mrs. George Templeton, Jr., and Mrs. James Torrance.

COUNTY NEWS in brief . . .

Cigarettes And Money were stolen from the Eddy Street sub-station of the Penelec sometime Sunday night. The thieves broke open a small insert door in a large garage door and gained entrance to the building. They broke and entered a cigarette machine and took money and cigarettes and attempted to crack a Coco-Cola machine. No other offices were disturbed.

Workers At Sylvania in Warren, belonging to Lodge 993, IAM, American Federation of Labor, approved a wage increase proposal submitted by the company Monday by a vote of eight to one. Though Sylvania's present contract does not expire until December 31, 1954, the firm offered to put the increases into effect as of August 30. The four to seven cent increase is broken down into various wage brackets.

Hammond Iron Works got itself a new union, the Federal Credit Union, at an organizational meeting Monday night. Elected to the board of directors were W. J. Baldensperger, president; Robert Greer, vice president; William Lightner, treasurer; Merle Passenger and Duane Bliss. Membership is open to all employees of Hammond's local plant. A similar credit union was to be organized at the Warren State Hospital Tuesday evening.

Plenty Of Water is still the word in Warren in spite of the fact that acute shortages have been suffered in other Pennsylvania and New York communities, and to insure that fact even more a new well is being contemplated for fall. It will be drilled along the south side of Hemlock street about 700 feet east of the new well drilled last year. Five wells now yield Warren's water supply.

Twenty Members of the Jehovahs Witnesses in Warren have returned after attending the semi-annual circuit convention August 27-29 in Ashtabula, Ohio. Delegates from twenty congregations of Northeastern Ohio and Northwestern Pennsylvania were among the 1,300 persons at the conference. Mr. Theodore Smith presided over the Warren group.

Three-Car Trouble resulted when a car driven by Lawrence Farr of 111 Parker St., failed to stop in time at the traffic light going west on Pennsylvania Ave. at Market St. on Sunday. Mr. Farr's auto hit a car driven by Myron Miller, 29 S. South St., which in turn hit the car of Evelyn Green, 900 Pennsylvania Ave. Damage to the vehicles was not great.

Staff Shifts for the Allegheny National Forest were announced this week by R. J. Costley, local Forest Supervisor. Paul Sundheimer of Roanoke, Va., will become Resource Staff Assistant in the headquarters office of the Allegheny National Forest in the Post Office building. Forester Francis Carr, whose headquarters have been at Sheffield, is being transferred and promoted to the position of Assistant Ranger on the Jefferson National Forest in Virginia. Richard Goodrich of Buffalo, N. Y., has been assigned as Junior Forester on the Allegheny National Forest, with headquarters at Marienville. Floyd Wiles, a native of Ohio and a resident of Youngstown, is reporting to work as Junior Forester with headquarters at Sheffield.

FUTURE IN DOUBT. Loblaw's own these large properties on Fourth ave. in Warren and hope to convert them, along with a third on the corner of Fourth and Hickory, into a store and off-street parking lot. The Warren borough council now has the decision to make and probably will not act until a public hearing is held.

WASHINGTON. -- Once again a party leader — President Eisenhower in this instance — is up against a familiar political paradox of election year.

This has to do with the comprehensive trade program for which the President asked Congress last March in order to help our allies to help themselves, and thus strengthen their economies and relax their dependence upon us for financial aid. He had to abandon it, you may recall, because of opposition within his own party. Now the President reaffirms his support of the program and announces his intention to press for it in the next Congress.

He is also seeking another Republican Congress. The paradox is this: how, if he gets that, does he expect to get the trade program that the present Republican Congress refused him? It is nothing but a matter of fixed political convictions working out in plain arithmetic.

In the next Congress, if it should be Republican, the President would find the same two powerful figures who blocked his trade program before in the same powerful places of authority. They are Rep. Dan Reed (R., N.Y.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Senator Eugene D. Millikin (R., Colo.), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. Senator Millikin continues in the next Congress, not being up for reelection; while Rep. Reed's reelection is considered automatic from the district he has represented for 34 years.

Below these two leaders, the lineup within the party in Congress on the tariff issue will be about the same. You may count on that.

There is one direct way for the President to try to change that to his own way of thinking. That would be to make an issue of the tariff within his party and choose between Republican candidates on the basis of their tariff views. He has not the slightest intention of doing anything of the sort, or of choosing between Republicans on any issue.

There is one possible result of the election which would give him enough votes for his trade program. That would be a Democratic Congress. But he can't get mixed up in anything like that, or even think of it.

One other course is open to him as leader of the Republican party. That would be to make such an issue of foreign trade in general terms — in campaign speeches addressed to the public at large — that he would impress the people so that they would, in time and in turn, bring pressure upon the next Congress to do what the President wants.

Obviously the hope that he might stress the issue is harbored by some Republicans of internationalist viewpoint who are worried about the prospects of effective action in the next Congress. This came out in the letter written to the President at Denver by Harry D. Bullis, head of General Mills, Inc., who said: "Some of your friends are concerned about the place this program occupies for the year ahead."

The President in a statement from his summer headquarters said the trade program would have "high priority" in his program for the next Congress, and gave assurance that his own views are still the same as expressed in his message to Congress last March 30.

In that message the President recommended the comprehensive foreign trade program embodied in the report of the special commission headed by Clarence Randall, the steel man. Among other things, it called for extension of the reciprocal trade program for three years and for authorization for further tariff cuts within a range of 15 percent, five percent a year.

Senator Millikin and Rep. Reed, who were both members of the Randall Commission, balked at such a program in dissenting reports and their views were shared by so many other Republicans that the President had to give up his program. Instead, he had to be content with a flat, one-year extension of the reciprocal trade program, under which there is little leeway for the State Department to bargain with other nations for further tariff reductions. The President got this face-saving compromise only through Democratic votes.

One obstacle to a real campaign by the President on foreign trade is that it might offend many Republicans. It can be forecast without much risk that you'll hear little of it in the campaign; but, by the same token, don't be shocked when, in the next Congress, if it's a Republican Congress, you see the same thing happen as happened in the 83rd Congress.

Labor Day Means Just That for the Warren High School Football team as the locals hold their annual intra-squad games on War Memorial Field in preparation for the season opener against Corry, Sat., Sept. 11, on the home field.

Coach Fred Bell has two freshmen teams opening the afternoon of football at 1:30 p. m. They will be followed by a clash between a sophomore and junior teams at 2:00 p. m. while two varsity teams will meet in the main attraction at 2:30 o'clock.

The Dragons have held several scrimmages in the past few weeks, but Coach Bell is waiting until the cleats stop flying at the end of this week before announcing the line-up for the varsity tilt. One of the most encouraging notes for the locals has been the lack of any injuries.

Seven lettermen will form the core of the Dragon team. They are seniors Don Mahaffey, back; Joe Book, tackle; Chuck Eaton, center; Jim Rose, back; Ron Viola, guard, and juniors Mike Shanshala, end, and Jack Shattuck, back.

Following the Labor Day tilt Coach Bell will concentrate on Corry with scrimmages Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Corry has been hard at work and veteran observers report another tough and spirited team is shaping up for Coach Lou Hanna. The Beavers have won 17 straight games since losing their opener to Warren two years ago.

Winners In The Trout Contest held by the Farr's Sporting Good Company are collecting their prizes this week for their big catches. Len Beach caught the largest brown trout of the season, measuring 29 1/4 inches. Phil Phelmen took second with one 25 1/4 inches, while third place went to Frank Raffale, 25 1/2 inches, and fourth to Mark Wolf at 23 inches.

Paul Grosh's 16 inch brook trout took honors in that division, with Wade Schwartz second at 14 inches. In the rainbow class Mike Andrews' 17 inch entry won, and J. Ostergard was second with a 16 inch catch.

TV Football

One television station which will have the college football games this fall is Buffalo's new WGR. They will start September 25 with Iowa meeting Michigan State. The rest of the schedule reads: October 2, Stanford vs. Illinois; October 9, Wisconsin vs. Rice; October 16, Oregon vs. Southern Cal.; October 23, Pittsburgh vs. Northwestern; October 30, Penn vs. Penn State; November 6, Baylor vs. Texas; November 13, Georgia Tech vs. Alabama; Nov. 20, Ohio State vs. Michigan; November 25, Maryland vs. Missouri; November 27, Army vs. Navy, and December 4, Southern Methodist vs. Notre Dame.

Hunting Licenses Are On Sale at the court house and many of the local sporting stores. The major change for the nimrods is the absence of a doe season.

In The Industrial Softball League action a spirited Thomas Coupling team is threatening a major upset as the second half approaches the end. The Coupling nine posted two big victories by defeating Emblem Oil, 10 to 7, and first place Texas, 10 to 9. A three run homer by Gary Littlefield enabled the winners to stay in contention for the title. The Coupling men trail by one game with two remaining on the schedule. Tonight they face the Keystone Garage at Thomas field and finish the season Tuesday evening against Struthers Wells.

Emblem Oil could decide the outcome of the second half when they meet Texas in the Hot Dog boys final game of the season Tuesday night at the State. Texas downed Keystone Garage, 19-1, and won a protested game, 6-3 from the Merchants last night to stay on top. In the Merchant-Texas tilt the winners were outhit, 7-5, but four walks, a hit and an error gave them four big runs in the seventh off Sorensen. The tough Merchant crew could also change the standings if a replay of the protested game is ordered by the league. In other games the Merchants trounced Struthers 17 - 7 and then bumped Emblem Oil 12 - 9.

Ludlow's Wildcats Tallied Twice in the first inning against the Kane Legion, but needed some stellar pitching from reliever Fred Gray to hang up a 3-2 victory. Young Jim Gibson of the Legion and the Cats Keith Holden were tangled in a mound duel until the Legion nine threatened to break the game wide open in the eighth frame when it loaded the bases on two walks and a single.

Kane scored a lone tally before Gray came in and shut the door in their face. Gibson allowed only four hits while Holden and Gray gave up but three. A double by Jiggs Juban was the only extra base blow of the game. Sunday the Cats begin their Penn-York league play-offs at Wildcat Park, meeting either Salamanca or Sherman, N. Y.

Members Of The Conewango Country Club enjoyed their annual swimming meet Sunday with a fine attendance. Judy Lundahl copped top honors in the Innertube race for non-swimmers while brother David won the Length of pool contest for youngsters nine and under.

Evan Lanman took first place in the 10 to 13 years Length of pool race. Ann and Jim Fuelhart combined to take the Egg and Spoon Relay Race. In the Under Water Race for those under 12, Penny Barley led the pack. Roger Paucek took top honors in the diving contest for those nine years and under, Evan Lanman and Ann Fuelhart shared the top spot in the 11 to 13 diving, and Louise Culbertson came in first in the 14 and over diving class.

Patty Lanman and Ann Fuelhart won the Pajama Race Relay, while Louise Culbertson took the final event of the day, the Five Lengths Free Style.

Ray Caldwell, well known one-time major league pitcher from Corydon, was voted into the Jamestown Sports Hall of Fame by the fans. Sharing the limelight with Caldwell was Frank Bolling of the Detroit Tigers who also received the honor.

Adenauer Is Our Hope

By Doris Fleeson

BONN, West Germany. — The Adenauer government will meet the crisis of confidence caused by recent Western diplomatic failures with creative ideas, patience and hope. Its goal remains an integrated Europe in which Germany plays an important and honorable part. Anything less than that is "unacceptable."

This goes for a national army, even if it is part of a coalition. A solution that does not include a fair and proper relationship between Germany and France is "unthinkable."

The answer to the question, "After EDC, what?" is not a return to the past but creative ideas and then more creative ideas when the first fail.

This candid resume comes from official circles in this capital of the West German government. It shows Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, at nearly 79, looking forward with a fortitude and vision for which the whole free world must be in his debt. He is not leading from weakness.

West Germany has achieved a remarkable recovery, which makes her the strongest country in Europe. As usual the substance has preceded the form but the form is catching up. West Germany has its sovereignty in all but name now and the technical forms will shortly be complied with.

Can the Chancellor put it over in the face of the disappointment and frustration attendant upon the fate of EDC at Brussels, the diplomatic defeats at Berlin and Geneva, with their subsequent loss of prestige by the United States?

The official circles answer yes, emphatically. The world, it is explained, thinks of Dr. Adenauer, the international statesman; Germans think of him as the Great White Father who made their war-ravaged country prosperous and gave it back its good name.

EDC, it is said, is not first in the German's mind, but his own decent life is. He follows, therefore, the man who gave it to him, admittedly with a great deal of help from America. The Chancellor, it is asserted confidently, took the country with him on EDC and he will take it with him on the constructive ideas with which the present crisis must be overcome.

Official circles are cautious in their discussion of the recent defections of Security Chief Dr. Otto John, Parliament member Karl Schmidt-Wittmack and others. Dr. John is again described as a unique case. The first official reports on the deserting deputy show that he was not prosperous, as was said immediately. It now is thought he might have been bought.

The propaganda value to the Communists of the defections is not minimized. That they were symptomatic of deep disorder is thought impossible. Chancellor Adenauer is still scheduled to visit President Eisenhower in October at the White House.

OBSERVATIONS

By Bob Walsh

Life Saving

Perhaps we now will see what will happen when all-out policing of the highways is attempted. Though the loss of life on the nation's roads primarily is the fault of those who drive cars, and the problem never will be completely eliminated until the drivers take care, we always have believed that people behave best when there is a traffic cop in sight or right around the corner.

With Labor Day coming up, the governor of Michigan has decided that the loss of many lives within a day or two justifies extreme measures. In fact, he believes that the potential killing of this many people can be classified as an emergency. We agree!

He is calling out the national guard and hopes to police the highways so thoroughly that driving will be calmed down to a sane rate, traffic jams smoothed out, and dangerous situations eliminated. The guard will use planes to spot trouble and will have jeeps on the ground in contact with the spotters.

If enough of this equipment is available to do a real job, Michigan may reduce its death total to less than an average week end. Just the presence of uniformed men is enough to have a major effect. Because speed is your villain, speed and recklessness. With officers watching, these two ugly habits are apt to be curbed, and the spilling of blood reduced.

We hesitate to encourage this practice because of the monster that is found in the cure. Freely using the troops for police purposes has frightening potentialities, and we hope that other means can be found to provide the same protection if the Michigan experiment works.

However, it may be safer to utilize troops for emergency situations and avoid too large a state police force. This becomes involved in current efforts by some to federalize all troops and to eliminate the state guard. This is another and very important subject, related to, but not our main theme of the moment.

What we are after now is an answer to the loss of lives on the highways. Considering our average day, and the wrecking and maiming that takes place, the holiday toll is not surprising. In fact, it isn't high, by comparison.

But that does not mean it is right. Nothing that cripples, kills, and damages is right if we can find a remedy. We doubt if there is a single cure. Cars are not as safe as they could be. Highways are not as safe as they could be made. Drivers are not screened as are those who fly planes. Until these and other weaknesses are overcome, teacher must stand watch to see that the class behaves.

Last year about 1600 people were killed on Pennsylvania highways. No war has proved that costly. And the figures come right home. We find 14 listed as killed in Warren county. This is a worse per capita record than big Erie county which is five or six times as large and lost 65.

Other neighbors and their losses are Venango with 17 killed, Crawford with 14, McKean with 8, Mercer had 21, and even little Forest had 4.

Perhaps Governor Williams is wrong in calling this an emergency, but if he can force death to join the rest of us in a holiday next Monday it will be proof that people can drive safely if they are forced to. The next step will be to make them do so of their own free will.

An odd twist, really, having to force people to save their own lives. And, by so doing, perhaps take a step which eventually could rob them of their freedom.

FEATURED SPEAKER at Civil Defense celebration dinner commemorating opening of the new Ground Observer post held in the new Glade Township Firehall was Mr. Harold Clark, CD Director of

THE CROWD. Over 150 patrons turned out Monday evening to enjoy the dinner celebrating the completion of Warren County's new Ground Observer Post. The meeting was held in the recently completed Glade Township Firehall, near Irvinedale School. The observation post is situated atop the new firehall and is said to give one of the most commanding views in the county.

WAITRESSES. A steady flow of cream chicken, coffee, and salads were distributed by Mrs. Audrey Curtis, Mrs. Thyre Nuhfer, Mrs. Ray Gafner, Mrs. Bert Lindsey, Mrs. Robert Shine, Joyce Knapp and Karen Curtis.

Television Grows

Though there are many ultra high frequency stations either failing to utilize their permits or folding after attempting to show a profit, the established stations apparently are holding their own, and the industry as a whole will have a bigger season this fall and winter. Already the national TV commercial time for the fall period is twenty-five percent above last year.

If you watch CBS you will see almost 64 hours of commercials each week in October. If you view NBC, you will spend about 44 hours a week watching commercials. ABC will have 2 hours of commercial time, and DuMont has sold 13 hours. All but DuMont show an increase over 1953. DuMont's October business will be about a fifth less. The big gainer is CBS which goes up from 48 hours a week to 64.

Programs which will enjoy wide viewing this fall, judging by the number of stations to carry them, are the football games, with 160 stations. December Bride will have 154 stations. Toast of the Town will be seen over 137. Private Secretary and Jack Benny will have 140. Your Hit Parade, You Bet Your Life, That's My Boy, and the Loretta Young Show, will be shown on 136 stations. Break the Bank will use 155. Red Skelton will have the benefit of 138. The Buick Circus, 135, I Love Lucy, 133, and the Martha Raye Show, 130.

This does not mean these are the most popular shows on the air. It reveals that there is some real money behind them.

Most Popular

Switching to radio we find the most popular evening show to be People Are Funny, by a very slim margin over Dragnet. These are once a week shows. Leading the programs heard several times a week is NBC's News of the World.

Also In The Air

All that is in the air is not sound or TV waves. There also are a few thousand heavier than air craft, propelled forward by powerful motors and kept aloft by that mighty stuff which you can't see but has the power to lift seventy tons.....namely, the air.

In the Warren area the play time of the vast majority has little to do with planes. The sport of buzzing through space in a vibrating crate of small size does not appeal sufficiently to the area residents for it to become a major activity.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, or portions thereof sparked by LeRoy Schneck, thinks this should be changed, and the second annual air fair is set for the Warren port on September 12, lasting from ten a. m. to dark. It should be a big day for those who enjoy flying and those interested in obtaining a bit of first hand information on the subject.

It has been many years since the Warren airport was the center of regular air shows, breakfasts, and other activities of a nature that appeals to those who flew the tree tops by the seat of their britches. It was a busy place, and enthusiasm ran high.

The Jaycees are trying to revive this interest and along practical lines. Realizing that pleasure flying has become a bit expensive, due to the Cadillac price of small planes, the Jaycees are emphasizing the value of commercial travel by air. And they have something there.

Letters are being circulated to many who might be in a position to utilize planes in a practical application, and with the letters is a pamphlet, called Air Travel Today, compiled by Bill Lutz, Jr. and his committee.

This is a neat review of the advantages of air travel, revealing that the aircraft fleet of American corporations is about ten thousand, which is ten times the number used by commercial airlines. And all these planes are flown with a safety record of one fatality for every two hundred million miles of travel. Compared with other forms of transportation that sounds extremely safe.

Business has become decentralized and speed is a major item. And there is no letter or call that can compare with a personal visit. The plane is the answer.

About 5,000 communities have airports accessible to company planes, and 535 have ports large enough for commercial flights.

Charts are shown which reveal the itemized costs and the argument presented is very well done and a very strong one. When you talk of operation cost that can run as low as five cents a mile, executives with travel problems certainly should listen.

The air fair will not be a stunt show. It will be an exhibition of the planes available, and will show how safe these planes are. Major manufacturers will have their latest models on the field, you can ask about them or fly in them. There will be people present qualified to serve you in either way.

The letters say, ".....objective in promoting the Air Fair is to demonstrate and prove to the public that Air travel is the fastest, safest, and most economical method of transportation."

THE IMPORTANCE OF LABOR

Labor Day reminds us of the great importance of labor in producing all the goods and services so necessary to our way of life. Inventors have perfected machines to lift from men's backs some of the drudgery of former years. But good, honest toil was never more vital to our progress than it is today.

RADIO AND TELEVISION

By John Crosby

THE BBC GOES COMMERCIAL

The British are about to embrace commercial television — Gads, Boothby, we lost India and now this! — and they may be in for a shock. They may like it. It is this that is causing more concern than anything else.

If commercial television, when it arrives, were to be found by the British to be absolutely horrible by absolutely everyone, most Britons — or at least most of those Britons who write to "The Times" — would be immensely gratified. The British could then feel that the "American system of broadcasting," as commercial broadcasting is known, was suitable only to those vulgar Americans, that no Briton could stomach it.

But suppose that the British not only can stomach it but like it? What then? The fact is that the English have been subjected to such a barrage of propaganda about the vulgarity of American broadcasting that anyone watching the "American system" and finding himself enjoying it is going to feel terribly guilty about it.

And yet I have a suspicion the English are going to like commercial broadcasting very much. It won't be the first time. During the war, the Armed Forces Network which we built there for our own troops broadcast many American radio programs. Those Britons nearby our camps tuned in in droves. Several of our vulgar American TV programs, notably "What's My Line?" and "Down You Go," are on the BBC and are immensely popular.

I'm always bemused by this matter of taste, anyhow. Recently, for example, Sir Thomas Beecham, England's noted conductor, wrote a series of articles for "The Times" of London, defending the American system of broadcasting. Some of the defense was very sound; bits of it were decidedly curious.

Said Sir Thomas, among other things, about an evening spent watching our TV: "Availing myself of a dozen different channels (Sir Thomas must have been mid-way between New York and Philadelphia, tuning in on both cities. Even then you couldn't get a dozen), I found myself enjoying a highly attractive series of spectacles. Each evening I viewed a first-rate boxing match, (Really? Each evening? Where did you get this set, Sir Thomas?) and, most absorbing of all, a wrestling contest, something with which our own public is comparatively unfamiliar.

"I know of little more virile and exciting than the sight of one gentleman, weighing about seventeen stone picking up another of similar avoirdupois and throwing him over his head with as much facility and address as if he were handling bales of cotton or sacks of coal. I enjoyed other truly masculine and adult exhibitions of a similar sort which find place rarely in our one and only monopolistic institution."

What do you suppose the other "truly masculine and adult exhibitions" were — roller derbies? I suppose it would be unkind to inform Sir Thomas that our wrestling matches are as phony as a three-dollar bill and I hope that none of you will. "Adult and masculine," eh? Who — Gorgeous George?

Some of the British attacks on our system are kinder than this defense. In reply to this defense, I think it only fair to point out that our wrestling matches belong to the early Neanderthal Period of American television along with Faye

Emerson (who sometimes refers to herself as the Pola Negri of TV.)

We have largely outgrown wrestling and gone on to the higher things like "Strike It Rich" and "Kathryn Murray." But I'm slightly astounded that a man like Beecham who admits there is a "good deal of rubbish" on our TV should pick out as one of the better things, wrestling. Whose taste is better than whose and who is vulgar, again?

Another noted conductor from abroad was also a great devotee of televised wrestling, too. Name of Arturo Toscanini. Toscanini used to watch wrestling everytime he could find any to watch, shouting "Keel him! Keel him!" Bloodthirsty boys, these conductors.

(Pennsylvania Game Commission releases of the past two weeks have contained several interesting and informative articles. They comprise our column this week.)

1954 License Required Sept. 1

The Game Commission reminds hunters that the current hunting license period expires August 31. Beginning September 1, and until the end of next August, a 1954 hunting license must be owned and worn in the lawful hunting or trapping of any wild birds or animals in this State.

The Department of Revenue advises 1954 hunting licenses have been shipped to all issuing agents. They should be available anywhere in the State as of September 1.

Any person applying for the Special Archery License required for the October bow and arrow season on antlered deer must first own a 1954 Pennsylvania hunting license.

Archery license applications are obtainable from all hunting license issuing agents, but each application must be sent with the $2.00 fee to the Department of Revenue at Harrisburg - the only agency empowered to issue such licenses.

Occasionally someone asks whether it is necessary to buy a hunting license to lawfully hunt foxes, crows, certain hawks, or other unprotected species. The game law requires, generally, that persons who wish to take wild birds or animals of any description in Pennsylvania, either by hunting or trapping, must own and wear a hunting license for the current period.

The law provides these three exceptions:

1. Any citizen residing upon and regularly and continuously cultivating lands in Pennsylvania for general farm purposes, truck growing, orchards or nurseries, operated on a commercial basis, may hunt or trap thereon without license. Under the above conditions, such person may also hunt or trap upon lands connecting with his own, other than those publicly-owned, without a hunter's license after obtaining written consent from the owner or lessee.
2. Resident disabled war veterans with the loss of one or more limbs or the loss of the use of one or more limbs, if service incurred, may receive a free hunter's license from any county treasurer.

3. Residents under 18 years of age may trap fur-bearing animals (except beavers) and predators without a hunter's license, but they must have a license to trap raccoons, which are game animals, and beavers.

The San Juan Rabbit

On February 10, this year, the Pennsylvania Department of Health issued a regulation forbidding the importation of any live wild rabbit, hare or rodent into the Commonwealth from areas known to be infected with dangerous transmissible diseases. This eliminated cottontail rabbit shipments from customary western state sources. However, the Department did not ban importation of a special breed of rabbit from the San Juan Islands, located in Puget Sound off the west coast of Washington. (A $1 fee is required with each importation permit request to the Department.) The reason was the Washington State Department of Health has had no reports of bubonic plague or other serious diseases transmissible from rabbits to man from these islands in recent years.

In this connection a thought-provoking article titled THE SAN JUAN RABBIT appears in the September issue of Pennsylvania Game News. The author is Roger M. Latham, Chief of the Pennsylvania Game Commission's Research Division. The animal's history, its possibly undesirable features and the dangers of promiscuously introducing any wild species are thoroughly discussed. The article points out the destructive as well as the desirable traits of this large-size rabbit of European origin.

Latham closes his article with: "Research personnel are watching several of these San Juan releases closely. Within the next few years they hope to decide whether this new game animal should be encouraged or rigidly controlled. Let us hope that this introduction will not turn out to be a biological blunder."

Observations Of A Game Protector

An Erie County Game Protector named Elmer Simpson here reports interesting incidents he observed in the course of his duties in July.

Says Simpson "Wading in a beaver dam to check on ducks the Commission released, I came upon a woodchuck perched on a dead tree stub. He was about sixty yards from shore. His fur was dry, so he had been there for some time. I found one dead duck. One of his feet had become so securely tangled in water weeds the bird died on the spot."

"Alongside a young gray fox caught in one of my traps this month were the remains of two small rabbits. One had been eaten; the other was untouched. Evidently the mother fox was still providing for her pup though he was held by the trap."

On Saturday Mr. Bonavita was re-elected to the board of directors with the entire slate of H. Clifton McWilliams, Jr., who was elected state chairman. Bonavita was campaign manager for the newly elected chairman. The group will meet at the municipal building and decide at that time what night would be the most satisfactory for the rest of the sessions. Capt. George Hamburger, highly recommended battalion chief of the Erie fire dept., will instruct the 18 three-hour sessions. After completing the 54 hour course, enrollees are awarded a certificate by the Public Service Institute of the Department of Public Instruction of the state of Pennsylvania. Still Operating the Nation-Wide chain is Smith and Horton, of Warren. The inventory and wholesale business of the Smith and Horton Co. now is owned by Punxsutawney and Pittsburgh capital and is known as the Warren Grocery Co. The building is being leased by the Warren Grocery Co. Emmons Jones, president of Smith and Horton, continues to maintain his office in the building at 405 Chestnut St. The new wholesalers are Joseph Levy, of Pittsburgh, and A. T. DeLuca, of Punxsutawney.

A Well-Known And Established florist of Warren, Victor H. Offerle, sold his greenhouse and florist shop at 16 Hertz St. to Hugh W. Mohny of 62 Lookout Ave., Ridgway. The real estate transaction that had been in the wind for some time, was completed Friday. The Mohny family has rented Offerle's residence on Hertz St. and will move to Warren soon, taking over business operations about September 1. Mr. Mohny has grown up with the floral business operated as Gorton's Greenhouse in Ridgway. This year he opened a branch store in Jamestown across from Hotel Jamestown. Mohny served in the Navy during World War II, has taken courses in floral design and accounting, and is married and has two children. The Offerles are planning to reside at their country home.

After Two Years, the grade school at Enterprize will reopen for the fall term to teach the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades. Mrs. Verna Lindmark from Enterprize will teach the third and fourth grades. Southwest Township pupils will attend the school.

Info Concerning The Opening of Warren Borough and Warren Area Joint Schools next week has been released by Superintendent of Schools Carl Whipple. In brief here are a few of the statements. Warren public schools will open Wednesday, September 8, 8:25 a. m. for the high schools, 8:45 a. m. for elementary schools. Children who will be six before Feb. 1, 1955, may enter first grade, those who will be five by the same date may enroll in kindergarten. Most kindergarten registrations have been made, but additional ones will be accepted at East, Home, Lacy and McClintock.

Enrollment is necessary for those who have moved into the district and are entering Warren schools the first time or those who did not continue in school until June '54. Buildings will be open for enrollment Tuesday morning, September 7, from 9 to 11 a. m. Beaty and Warren High will enroll new students the entire week of August 30.

Beaty cafeteria will not be open the first few weeks of school so all students must carry their lunches. The high school cafeteria will be open.

More School News and instructions are being released this week for the back-to-schoolers. This one concerns Beaty Junior High pupils. Home-room assignments will be given Wednesday, September 8 beginning at 8:25 a. m. Seventh grade pupils should report to Jefferson St. School auditorium; eighth, Beaty boys' gym; and ninth, Beaty girls' gym. Remember, Beaty-ites, that lunches will have to be carried for the first few weeks until the cafeteria is completed. Northern Area Joint Schools have released their calendar for the coming year. School will open Tuesday, September 7; Warren County Teachers Institute, October 15; PSAT meeting in Erie, October 18; Thanksgiving recess, November 25, 26, 29; Christmas vacation, December 23-January 2; last day of first semester, January 25; first day of second semester, January 26; Easter vacation, April 7-April 12; Memorial Day, May 30; last day of school, June 6.

First Observers at the new observation tower atop the Glade Township Fire hall after the dedication Monday night were David Fuellhart and John Drum. These boys are part of the 70 per cent of the needed watchers that have already signed up to man the post. Almost 100 more observers are needed to spot planes if the tower is to be open twenty-four hours a day. During the hours from 12 to 8 a. m. when observation would seem most necessary, the fewest number of people have volunteered.

"Slow Down And Live Week" has been proclaimed by Burgess William Rice for the period between Sunday, September 5, and Sunday, September 12, in conjunction with the Governor's Highway Safety Advisory Committee of Pennsylvania. Back-to-school crowds, the Labor Day week end, and the fact that at the 1954 Penna. Conference on Highway Safety it was suggested that one week of the year be designated for special emphasis on Traffic Accident Prevention made next week a logical choice for be-especially-careful week.

The Last Passenger-Carrying Voyage of the City of Jamestown has probably been made, announced the only two qualified pilot-captains on Chautauqua Lake Tuesday, much to the dismay of many Warren County residents. The vessel will continue to make trips through the Chadakoin River outlet to fulfill a contract with the city which runs through October, though it will carry no more paying passengers. The old boat, dating back over a hundred years, ran aground a sand bar at Bemus Creek Friday night on a cruise of the Civil Service Employees Association and the passengers had to be removed via small boats.

It's Home Again for Company I as they returned to Warren by chartered Greyhound bus Saturday afternoon after being encamped at Indiantown Gap, Lebanon county for two weeks. Company I honors included having the trimmest and best-operated mess kitchen of all Driver of the car, James Dunkle, of 209 1-2 Madison Ave. was traveling slowly at the time of the accident and stopped immediately to help Mrs. Bright. She was taken to Warren General Hospital with bruises on her knees and hips. Dunkle was charged with operating a car without glasses when his driver's license required him to wear them.

Continued Generally was the decision in the Vern Snelding cattle case on the charge of cruelty to animals preferred by Sheriff Larry Linder. Snelding was to have had a hearing before Justice of the Peace Tracy Greenlund. The trouble all began in April when the Sheriff's office had reports of starving cattle at the Snelding farm on Route 62 near Akeley. Upon investigation 16 cows were discovered starved to death in the barn. Though they were warned to get rid of the cattle, the people failed to comply. More trouble ensued, but now the owners have disposed of the entire herd and everything seems to be taken care of.

Missing A Curve on Route 6 three miles east of Sheffield Saturday sent Abe Maggs of Jamestown, N. Y., to Kane Community Hospital with a fractured skull and back.

The accident occurred at 2:10 a. m., and caused about $800 damage to Maggs' car.

Two Trucks Sideswiped near Russell at 2:10 this morning, with $1500 in damages. The operators were Charles Meyers, Jamestown, and James Kriner, Dubois. Neither were injured.

Chautauqua Institution continued at its usual record-breaking attendance levels this year during the '54 season with 55,000 people visiting Chautauqua during July and August, many staying the full eight-week session. The aggregate music attendance, including symphony concerts, operas and recitals, was well over 200,000 estimates Gerald Lynch, Chautauqua treasurer. Registration in Chautauqua's youth organizations was the highest in history with 1024 boys and girls included. The '54 season closed Sunday night with a Sacred Song Service that drew over 5,000 people. Next year's opening date has been set as Sunday, July 3.

The YMCA Will Finish up its summer schedule this week and switch over to the fall program beginning next week. Herb Pfuhl has returned from vacation and resumed swimming instruction Tuesday for the women's swimming class which meets each week at 8 p. m.

Looking For A Little Adventure three boys from the Hoffman home on Conewango Ave. took a little jaunt into the woods of Glade Township Monday. When they did not return later the police were called. Sgt. Donald Holmes, of the state police, and Patrolman W. E. Hewitt, of the city police, began a search of the hills to no avail. They finally discovered the wanderers crouched beneath an evergreen tree at a corner of the home property. The boys must have decided that their own yard offered enough excitement for them.

BUYERS' CORNER

A Big Day Coming

These should be big days for the alert merchant, and certainly are big ones for those families whose children are preparing for school. We wonder how many retailers realize how much money is spent at this time of year because of the back to school wave.

If a community has one thousand families sending children to school, they will spend $53,070 in August and September! And if the number is 2,500 families the figure jumps to $132,675!

It runs over $50 a family, and that adds up to quite a figure. It means that 5,000 families with children are spending $265,350 in these two months.

Add this to the school budget of almost $900,000 and schooling becomes quite an item. But the major share of it is sown right back into local income and serves as a double asset.

That is where the alert merchant comes in. A few very husky dollars are there to be earned.

Buyers Beware

Those school days are not enough. We also have some special days in September which have been dreamed up by those who either want to sell something or must have something to celebrate.

The name "United States" was created in this month back in 1776, on September 9, and became the official name for the United Colonies by order of the Continental Congress. This bit of knowledge might help one sell a flag for Labor Sunday, September 5, or Labor Day.

In step with the school day theme, no doubt, we learn it is National Doll Week, September 12 to 19. All dolls will sit up, open their eyes, and say "mama" in unison. It is time for a change.

Then comes something that sounds more like February, called Lessons in Truth Week, from September 13 to 19. If Washington were alive he could collect a mint in testimonials.

It is citizenship day on September 17 and for the following seven days it is Constitution Week. Which somehow leads up to National Dog Week, 19 to 25, and National Sunday School Week, 19 to 26.

In the middle of these dog days we will celebrate the fact that the first successful United States daily paper was published in Philadelphia in 1784 on September 21. It was the Pennsylvania Packet and Daily Advertiser. That name must have fairly well taken care of the front page.

Though there are some among us and a few localities that may not have heard about it, or at least choose to ignore the fact, the slaves were emancipated by proclamation on September 22, 1862. Any advertiser that can make something out of that deserves your patronage.

In case you don't notice, autumn will arrive the 23rd, and for some unexplained reason is followed by American Indian Day. The younger Indians can keep right on whooping it up for twenty-four more hours, because September 25 is National Kid's Day. Or is that one for the goat herders?

Darkness descends and we go into hibernation until spring when daylight saving ends on September 26.

We mustn't overlook that it is Gold Star Mothers Day on the 26 and for the next few days it is Christian Education Week. There is no getting away from that school business, even on Sundays, once the thing gets rolling.

Peachy Advice

Are you planning on canning a few peaches for the cozy winter months ahead? If so, don't consider a peach to be ripe because it has the grace to blush. This is not the color signal. A peach should have a creamy or yellowish background. Immature peaches may have a green color. Such probably were picked before ripe and they will lack flavor. A yellow peach will continue to ripen. So says Marjorie Wormeck, Pennsylvania State University nutritionist.

Bully For Us

Every Penn Stater probably will be busting with natural pride when he learns that while its yearling footballers may not have been doing so much for the alma mater, a yearling bull was earning top honors for the Nittanians. The bull, better known as O. Bardoliermere 32nd was first in the summer yearling class, then was chosen senior champion, and finally was named grand champion of the 7th American Aberdeen-Angus Futurity. Who won the daily double we are not quite sure, but we would go for a file off that bovine filly.

We mention this because if you are choosing a school for your son or daughter who may be interested in husbandry, this animal is used for instructional purposes at the University. We imagine that any class with this fellow on the podium must be completely cowed.

One of Warren's finest old gentlemen is celebrating his eightieth birthday today. Though his real birthday date is September 26, Justice of the Peace Tracy M. Greenlund is having a birthday dinner tonight with relatives whom he hasn't seen in many years. His two grandsons, Arnold, who will attend Lafayette College this year, and Tracy William; his grand-daughter-in-law, Mrs. Tracy William; his grand-daughter, Mrs. H. David Moore, and her husband and son, Danny, will be among the guests at the party. The Tracy William Greenlunds and the H. David Moore's are from Camp Hill, Pa. Mr. Greenlund has never seen his great grandson, or his granddaughters' or grandsons' spouses. Mr. Greenlund was born in Warren and has lived here all his life, holding several positions including treasurer and general manager of the Hammond Iron Works. Since 1941 he has served Warren as Justice of the Peace with the same fairness and incorruptibility that he has always practiced. Happy birthday, Mr. Greenlund, and many more of them!

SECOND AVENUE! Our article last week concerning the land surrounding the present Warren high school site contained one error which might mislead the reader into believing that land as far as Third is considered when expansion plans are discussed. The above homes are not on Third. They are the rear of homes which are east of the school building on Second ave.

The feature last week dealt with the area neighboring the high school, some of which might be needed if the old school were expanded instead of building a new one. The block in question is surrounded by Market, Second, East, and Pennsylvania ave.

TWO NEW DISPLAYS for the Warren Public Library were recently put up in the lobby. The one above portrays the popular back-to-school theme and was prepared by Miss Marie Weissenfluh. Peggy Eaton's extensive doll collection at the right is on display in the big glass case at the library.

NEW DIRECTOR FOR WARREN'S Y-TEENS is Mrs. Dorothy Frick Brenner of 218 Biddle st. Mrs. Brenner, an artist in her own right, will continue the essential program Y-Teens have had in years past. She will add courses in oil painting if there is sufficient interest in it. A native of Warren, Mrs. Brenner is a graduate of Syracuse University. She is Secretary of Warren's Association of College Women.
